He who loves best his fellow man
Is loving God the holiest way he can.
—Alice Carey.

Mrs. R. A. Baldwin had business in Paintsville on Friday.

George W. Wheeler of Winchester had business in town yesterday.

Mrs. Wavell Lewis of Blaine visited Monday her aunt, Mrs. Ollie Blair.

Ollie McClain returned Saturday from Ohio, where he had been husking corn.

W. J. Ward, county attorney of Johnson county, had business in town Tuesday.

Miss Sylvia Egelston visited her parents at Tabor and returned her Thursday.

H. R. Brown of Ashland, director of the emergency educational program, was in town yesterday.

County Attorney R. E. Nickell and Bud Little of Grassy Creek had business in Sandy Hook on Tuesday.

MEN WANTED for Raleigh Routes in Jackson. Write today. Raleigh Co., Dept. KYJ-200-SB, Freeport, Ill.

Born, Oct. 4, to Mr. and Mrs. Doris Byrd, at Greent, a nine pound girl—Elizabeth Aline. Mother and daughter are doing well.

Rev. and Mrs. C. S. Boggs entertained the young people of the M. E. church Saturday evening and served waffles and coffee.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Davis and son Emory, of Sandy Hook, spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Asa Blair, on North Main street.

Revs. Harlan McClure and Ernest Gross closed their meeting on Wells Hill Sunday night. The meetings were well attended and a good interest was shown.

Mrs. A. O. Allison of Grahn wrote one of her friends that she was leaving for North Carolina, where she was called to the bedside of her aged mother.

The Ruth brothers of Grayson have rented the Phillips house on South Broadway and moved in Tuesday. They are the contractors for the Grassy Creek road now under construction.

Mrs. Anty McClain has bought the lot on the corner of Water and Court streets of Dr. J. D. Whiteaker and has it graded and the foundation stones on the ground, ready to start work Monday on a new bungalow.

WANTED: Men and boys to represent the News Enquirer, the new daily and Sunday newspaper, which will be published in Louisville, first issue being October 22. Address: News Enquirer, 116 South Brook street, Louisville, Kentucky.—Adv.

Several of Mrs. S. R. Collier's friends have letters from her since she went to Cynthia to live with her mother. In her last messages she expresses herself as contented and as getting settled in her new location, altho West Liberty will always seem like home.

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Brong celebrated their fifth wedding anniversary with a chicken dinner on Sunday. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Brong, Lovel and Margaret Brong, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Wells, and Misses Elizabeth and Louise Wells and Carrie and Eunice Adams.

A school bus full of CCC boys came in from Bloomfield, Indiana, Friday, and a truck load came in Saturday from the same place. They spent the week end with home folks in different parts of the county. They express themselves as liking their work fine. There are 200 boys in this camp.

Mr. and Mrs. Wood of Brooklyn were taking their usual summer vacation and had planned a visit here with their friends, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Baldwin. Being providentially denied this pleasure, they arrived last week end and spent a few days with Mrs. Baldwin in her beautiful but saddened home.

ENLIST IN CAVALRY

Ambitious young Americans of this locality desirous of seeing the country will be given an opportunity during the month of October of enlisting in the famous First Cavalry, which is the only mechanized cavalry regiment in the entire United States army. This opportunity to enlist in Uncle Sam's very modern regular army organization at Fort Knox, Kentucky, results from the recent congressional action which increases the enlisted strength of the army. At Fort Knox there are vacancies today in the mechanized cavalry for mechanics, chauffeurs, typists, draftsmen, radio operators, buglers, carpenters, stenographers, and men familiar with other trades. Many of these vacancies carry extra ratings and pay.

The First Cavalry is stationed at Fort Knox, Kentucky, thirty miles south of Louisville on the Dixie highway.

The First Cavalry is equipped with modern motor vehicles, armed with machine guns, both for combat and to transport the supplies. All of the soldiers ride in vehicles. No one marches on foot.

The men are quartered in new brick barracks equipped with every modern convenience. Soldiers are fed, housed, and clothed by the government. The quality and quantity of food served at the soldiers' meals is one of the things of which the army is proud. The food is healthful, bountiful, well balanced, and well prepared.

Soldiers are given medical attention and dental treatment without charge to them. Everything that can be done to preserve their health and strength is done by the government for their welfare.

Opportunity is provided for athletics and other healthful recreation and each soldier is encouraged to take part in his favorite sport. There are baseball diamonds, swimming pools, boxing rings, football fields, tennis courts, and other facilities for this type of recreation.

Because of its modern equipment and the need for training with other troops, this regiment is frequently sent to other posts and localities throughout the country where it works with horse cavalry, infantry, and artillery. In this way the soldiers not only get a chance to see the country and form new friends but to learn about these other branches of Uncle Sam's forces.

Some of the more distant places familiar to our men are Fort Riley, Kansas; West Point, New York; El Paso, Texas; Fort Benning, Georgia; Camp Perry, Ohio; Baltimore, Maryland; and Fort Monmouth, New Jersey.

The First Cavalry (mechanized) is the oldest cavalry regiment in the American army. To its regimental standard (flag) streamers are attached giving this regiment 42 battle honors awarded for its valorous services in defense of its country in years gone by.

Men who have education will find many opportunities for advancement in the First Cavalry. At present 64 enlisted men of the regiment are studying for reserve commissions. A high school education is desirable but men with common school training and a knowledge of some vocation will also find opportunities.

Interested men should obtain an application blank from the local postmaster, fill it out, and send it to the Commanding Officer, First Cavalry, Fort Knox, Kentucky. Those desiring to do so may report in person to Headquarters, First Cavalry, Fort Knox, Kentucky, for examination, the result of which will determine applicants' suitability for enlistment.

Applicants for enlistment must be at least 18 years old, and if under 21 must have the consent of parents.

Wins Hog Calling Contest

Morehead, Ky., Oct. 5.—Russell Brown of Matthew, who is attending state teachers' college here, won first prize in the hog calling contest of the Rowan county school fair. Mr. Brown had five competitors, but it seems that since President Roosevelt introduced the reduction of hogs the Rowan county people have forgotten the call. Mr. Brown was also one of the features in an amateur program which was sponsored by the college Sept. 30.

Radio Speeches

The Kentucky State Citizens' Committee, working to save the seventh amendment to our state constitution, announces the following radio broadcasts: Tuesday, Oct. 8, 5:45 p.m.; Tuesday, Oct. 15, 5:45 p.m.; Tuesday, Oct. 22, 9:45 p.m.; Friday, Nov. 1, 5:30 p.m.; Sunday, Nov. 3, 1:45 p.m.; Monday, Nov. 4, 12:45 and 5:30 p.m.

Flays Liquor Traffic

Frank E. Gannett, newspaper publisher, in a statement issued recently by the American Business Men's Research Foundation, of which he is president, said the "increasing success of the liquor traffic to make drinkers out of nondrinkers" would mean a gradual weakening of the fiber of American life.

The statement, a discussion of the alcohol question, asserted the "increasing success of the liquor traffic to expand its profits will mean the slow, but sure, destruction of the market for food, clothing, education, books, insurance, and every other good thing which adds to the joy, safety, security, health, and efficiency of the individual and of society."

"The traffic in alcoholic beverages will not be tolerated when the truth about them is fully known by the public," Gannett said. He termed the liquor trade "a parasite on the body politic, a crooked competitor of honest trade and a continuous destroyer of constructive commerce."

POSTMASTER EXAMINATION

Receipt of applications to close Oct. 18, 1935.

The date for assembling of competitors will be stated in the admission cards which will be mailed to applicants after the close of receipt of applications.

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced an examination, as a result of which it is expected to make certification to fill a contemplated vacancy in the position of fourth class postmaster at Caney, Ky., and other vacancies as they may occur at that office, unless it shall be decided in the interest of the service to fill any vacancy by reinstatement. The examination will be held at Paintsville, Ky. The compensation of the postmaster at this office was $869 for the last fiscal year.

Applicants must have reached their twenty-first birthday but not their sixtieth birthday on the date of the close of receipt of applications.

Applicants must reside within the territory supplied by the postoffice for which the examination is announced.

The examination is open to all citizens of the United States who can comply with the requirements.

Application blanks, form 9, and full information concerning the requirements of the examination can be secured from the postmaster at the place of vacancy or from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

Applications must be properly executed and on file with the commission at Washington, D. C., prior to the hour of closing business on the date specified at the head of this announcement.

HELP YOUR TICKET

In order to assist in financing the Democratic state campaign for Lieutenant Governor A. B. Chandler and his associates on the ticket, all who believe in the policies he has espoused are requested to contribute to his campaign fund. Contributions sent to the state campaign fund thru the Courier will be sent to the state headquarters in Louisville. Send checks or cash. Checks should be made payable to Frederick A. Wallis, chairman of finance committee, Louisville, Ky.

EASTERN STAR MEETS

Paulina chapter no. 369 held its regular stated meeting on Friday, Oct. 4. Chapter was opened in a very beautiful manner and after the business session the worthy matron, Loula Belle Elam, asked the marshal, Bess Arnett, to present the following officers who had not been installed for installation: associate patron, C. P. Henry; chaplain, Jennie Brong; organist, Hattie Baldwin; Esther, Stella Fannin; warder, Ida Henry; Ruth, Curtis Franklin.

After the officers were installed Bro. C. P. Henry gave a short talk pledging his help and service to the chapter for the coming year. Our retiring worthy matron, Virginia Brong, gave a talk in which she expressed her thanks and appreciation to members and her officers for all help and cooperation. The chapter was delighted to have as visitors Rev. and Mrs. Boggs. They each gave a short talk telling their appreciation of being able to attend the chapter meetings while living in West Liberty.

Present at the meeting were Loula Belle Elam, Earl Tredway, Stella Lewis, C. P. Henry, Lottie Gullett, Gay Tredway, Jennie Brong, Lillian Blair, Mand Perry, Bess Arnett, Prudie Day, Curtis Franklin, Stella Fannin, Kathleen Franklin, Jennie Caskey, Ida Henry, Earl Price, Mrs. Amy Price, L. L. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Goebel Ratliff, Virginia Brong, Mrs. Combs, Mrs. Florence Murray.

After the close of chapter the refreshment committee, Stella Lewis, Amy Price, and Florence Murray, served delicious ice cream and cake and a social hour was enjoyed.

ELIJAH SMITH MEMORIAL

Uncle Elijah (Staver) Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smith, was born Oct. 4, 1843. He was married to Miss Sarah Cantrell and to them were born nine children, all but one of whom are now departed. One son, Ben Smith, survives. Following the death of his youngest daughter, Dec. 22, 1900.

Uncle Staver started on the fourth Sunday in September, 1901, to hold a memorial service annually in memory of his departed ones. This annual meeting came to be known as the Staver Smith association. Among the first ministers to participate in this meeting were Reverends A. J. Hamilton, Mabel Keaton, Bill Stapleton, Henry Stapleton, and I. T. Coffey, all deceased, and W. A. Williams, who has annually preached the introductory sermon at each association since.

Uncle Staver served his country as a federal soldier, receiving an honorable discharge.

He was a member of the Baptist church for about 40 years, and at the time of his death had been a full member of Union church for about three years.

He died March 18, 1935, at the age of 92 years, 10 months, and 14 days.

He was an ideal citizen with a pleasing personality. To know him was to love him. Today, Sept. 22, 1935, we bow our heads in memory of the founder of the Staver Smith association, Uncle Elijah Smith.

Ministers participating in the meeting this year were Reverends R. H. Ferguson, W. A. Williams, W. J. Beulhimer, D. W. Beulhimer, and A. C. Bradley.

Entertain Chandler

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Henry had the distinguished honor to entertain in their home in the west end of town Honorable A. B. Chandler on Thursday night of last week after Mr. Chandler delivered his address here in his campaign for governor. Joe Buram, a friend of Mr. Chandler's, was with him and enjoyed the hospitality of the Henrys. Mrs. Henry is close kin to the popular young candidate and both she and Mr. Henry have been Chandler enthusiasts from the very first.

Burton

Rebecca Emily Burton, widow of the late John W. Burton, died at her home at Cottle on Oct. 2, 1935, aged 63 years. Mrs. Burton was the daughter of Michael and Susan Byrd. In 1868 she united with the Free Will Baptist church at Insko and always retained her membership with that church.

Surviving children are Wm. Burton, Cottle; Maggie Adams, Grassy Creek; Vannie Hall, Pine Ridge; Elizabeth Cottle, Paintsville; Tom Burton, Cottle; Goebel Burton, West Liberty; and Cassie Hammond, Cottle. Thirteen grandchildren also survive.

Funeral services were conducted at the home and burial in the family cemetery. Reverends John Byrd, Harlan Murphy, and Joe Cottle participated in the ceremony.

DEMOCRATS SHOULD RESPOND

There should be hearty response to the appeal that has been made by the Democratic state headquarters in Louisville for individual contributions thru newspapers or sent directly by mail to Frederick A. Wallis, finance committee chairman, Democratic state headquarters, Louisville, Ky.

Democrats believe that public officials should owe their first loyalty to the electorate. In order that this may be an actual fact it is far better that campaigns should be financed by the rank and file rather than thru large contributions from those who might have interests of a selfish nature.

Lieutenant Governor Chandler has refused to make any commitments that would be embarrassing to him or to promise any appointments in advance. This, of course, makes the raising of campaign funds more difficult.

However it gives Mr. Chandler a better opportunity to serve the people who should gladly offer their contributions to promote government in their own interest.

On a Cruise

R. E. Bayes of Elkfork and Harry Coffey of near town left some time ago and procuring a canoe proceeded down the Mississippi and have arrived at the mouth of that great river in Louisiana. They have sent us a "Hello postcard" and wish to be remembered to friends here. Just what their future plans are they did not state. Seems like rowing back up the river is next for them.

NONE OTHER COMPARES TO OATMEAL

In one of the most important things to children—precious Vitamin B for keeping fit. Mighty few cereals have it.

Many are nervous, poor in appetite, system out of order, because their daily diets lack enough of the precious Vitamin B for keeping fit.

Few things keep them back like a lack of this protective food element.

So give everyone Quaker Oats every morning. Because in addition to its generous supply of Vitamin B for keeping fit, it furnishes food-energy, muscle and body-building ingredients. For about 1/2c per dish.

Start serving it tomorrow for a 2-weeks test. Quaker Oats has a wholesome, nut-like, luscious appeal to the appetite. Flavors, surprisingly good. All grocers supply it.

Bedtime Story for Children

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

LIGHTFOOT'S CLEVER TRICK

LIGHTFOOT the Deer is smart. Yes, sir, Lightfoot the Deer is smart. He has to be, especially in the hunting season, to save his life. If he were not smart he would have been killed long ago. He never makes the foolish mistake of thinking that other people are not smart. He knew that that hunter who had started out to follow him early that morning was not one to be easily discouraged or to be fooled by simple tricks. He had a very great respect for the smartness of that hunter. He knew that he couldn't afford to be careless for one little minute.

The certainty of danger sometimes is easier to bear than the uncertainty of not knowing whether or not there really is any danger. Lightfoot felt that if he could know just where the hunter was, he himself would know better what to do. The hunter might and quickly but very, very quietly returned in the direction from which he had just come, but a little to one side of his old trail. After a while he saw what he was looking for, a pile of branches which wood choppers had left when they had trimmed the trees they had cut down. This was near the top of a little hill. Lightfoot went up the hill and stopped behind a pile of brush. For a few moments he stood there, perfectly still, looking and listening. Then, with a little sigh of relief he lay down, where, without being in any danger of being seen himself, he could watch his old trail through the hollow at the bottom of the hill. If the hunter was still following him he would pass along through that hollow in plain sight.

For a long time Lightfoot rested comfortably behind the pile of brush. There was not a suspicious sound to show that danger was ahead in the Green Forest. He saw Mr. and Mrs. Grouse fly down across the hollow and disappear among the trees on the other side. He saw Unc' Billy Possum looking over a hollow tree and guessed that Unc' Billy was getting ready to go into winter quarters. He saw Jumper the Hare squat down under a low hanging branch of a hemlock tree and prepare to take a nap. He heard Drummer the Woodpecker at work drilling after worms in a tree not far away. Little by little Lightfoot grew easy in his mind. It must be that the hunter had become discouraged and was no longer following him.

QUESTION BOX

by ED WYNN, The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn: I just heard of a man who had a chicken farm in Florida that made him a million dollars in the last year. Do you believe that—if so, how did he do it?

Sincerely, IKE ANT, C. HOWE.

Answer: He cut his farm up into building lots and sold the chicken coops for bungalows.

Dear Mr. Wynn: A friend of mine said that many poor families would starve if it wasn't for liquor. What does he mean by that?

Sincerely, RIE FORMER.

Answer: He means that lots of families would starve to death if it wasn't for the fact that by selling their empty beer and whiskey bottles they get enough money to buy food with.

Dear Mr. Wynn: What is the quickest way to make sawdust?

Yours truly, M. T. NOODLE.

Answer: Use your head, my boy, use your head.

Dear Mr. Wynn: On our twenty-fifth wedding anniversary my wife and I had a big party. The guests called on my wife for a speech. She said I was a model husband. Don't you think that is wonderful after 25 years?

Sincerely, LOUIE VILL.

Answer: All depends how you look at it. According to Webster's dictionary the word "model" means "a small imitation of the real thing."

Dear Mr. Wynn: I am placed in a very peculiar position. I am a girl twenty years of age and have just met a young man twenty-three years of age. He has lived all his life with his widowed father, on a horse ranch. I am the only girl he ever saw in his life. He wants to marry me. Here's my problem: Can I be happy with a man who knows nothing else but horses?

Truly yours, HOPE E. TERNAL.

Answer: You should be very happy with him except for one thing. You say all he understands is horses. In that case if you should have an accident and break your leg he will probably shoot you.

MOTHER'S COOK BOOK

FOR THE CHILDREN

WHEN the children refuse to eat when meal time comes, usually it is nothing to worry about. Just give them a fruit drink or an egg yolk beaten well and added to a glass of orange juice. A bit of honey for sweetening may add to its attractiveness, but usually the orange juice has sufficient sweetness to be very palatable.

In addition to being very appetizing the following will build healthy bones and teeth and add vitamins which stimulate appetite and digestion:

Orange Milk Foam.

Take six tablespoons each of orange juice, milk and water, one teaspoon of honey and beat or shake well. Serve in a large glass at once. This is a good breakfast or luncheon drink. The addition of citrus fruit juices to milk promotes its digestion and adds to its palatability. Children who refuse milk when served alone will take it in this way. The addition of an egg yolk will make a real food drink. The use of honey is recommended as it is partly digested sugar and is for that reason easily assimilated.

Orange Baskets.

Cut off the tops of oranges and scoop out the fruit, leaving the shell clean. Cut the edge into points or scallops and fill the shells with the orange, a bit of chopped banana, canned pears or peaches when the fresh fruit is not obtainable. Top with:

Golden Salad Dressing.

Cook together in a double boiler, three-fourths of a cup each of lemon juice and sugar, and two well beaten eggs. Stir while cooking and remove as soon as the egg is cooked. Add whipped cream and serve for variety. This dressing especially well liked by children.

ON THE FIRST DAY OF SCHOOL

By ANNE CAMPBELL

All of the children drew a sudden breath, As if they'd glanced at Death.

The Teacher called the name of one who went This summer to that far Land of Content;

And no one answered... so with a swift flick Of her new pencil, Teacher made a check.

My daughter, telling me about it, said She left her startled and uncomfortable.

As if Death was just that: a name called out— No answer—and a pencil's careless flout!

The Man Who Knows

Whether the Remedy You are taking for Headaches, Neuralgia or Rheumatism Pains is SAFE is Your Doctor. Ask Him

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches; or the pains of rheumatism, neuralgia or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it—in comparison with Genuine Bayer Aspirin.

We say this because, before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin, most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of Bayer Aspirin largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken Bayer Aspirin year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: Genuine Bayer Aspirin is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains... and safe for the average person to take regularly.

You can get real Bayer Aspirin at any drug store—simply by never asking for it by the name "aspirin" alone, but always saying BAYER ASPIRIN when you buy.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, your doctor is authorized to guarantee Circumcision and to refund your money if you are not satisfied with results from the very first bottle. Get Circumcision right now. (Adv.)

Quick, Complete Pleasant ELIMINATION

Let's be frank. There's only one way for your body to rid itself of the waste matters that cause acidity, gas, headaches, bloated feelings and a dozen other discomforts—your intestines must function.

To make them move quickly, pleasantly, completely, without griping, thousands of physicians recommend Milnesia Wafers. (Dentists recommend Milnesia wafers as an efficient remedy for mouth acidity.)

These mint flavored candy-like wafers are pure milk of magnesia. Each wafer is approximately equal to a full adult dose of liquid milk of magnesia. Chewed thoroughly in accordance with the directions on the bottle or tin, then swallowed, they correct acidity, bad breath, flatulence, at their source and at the same time enable quick, complete, pleasant elimination.

Milnesia Wafers come in bottles of 20 and 48 wafers, at 35c and 60c respectively, or in convenient tins containing 2 at 20c. Each wafer is approximately in adult dose of milk of magnesia. All good drug stores carry them. Start using these delicious, effective wafers today. Professional samples sent free to registered physicians or dentists if request is made on professional letter head.

Chapter XXVI

The development of the coal industry has been rapid. In 1885 Kentucky produced something more than one and one half million tons and at the peak in 1927 more than seventy-two and one half million tons, and in 1932 about one half of that figure. Kentucky has occupied a third or fourth position among the producing states for the last several years, her output being essentially the same as that of Illinois and Pennsylvania. It is interesting to note that in spite of a greater abundance of higher grade coal in eastern Kentucky the development of that section lagged behind that of western Kentucky until 1911. This was a matter of the more rugged character of the land in the eastern area, particularly along its western margin and in the Pine and Cumberland Mountains areas. About two thirds of the state's production comes from eastern Kentucky.

Leading in production in the eastern area are Harlan, Pike, Letcher, Perry, and Floyd counties, and in western Kentucky Hopkins, Muhlenberg, and Webster counties. Seventeen counties in eastern Kentucky and eight in the western field produce more than 100,000 tons per year. The eastern Kentucky coals are used in the main for the manufacture of by-product coke and illuminating gas, and for domestic purposes. They include some of the best coking coals in the eastern United States. The western coals are used principally in steam making for industry and transportation. They are higher in ash and lower in heating value. Published figures on the Middleboro Basin, which includes the greatest of the coal producing counties of eastern Kentucky, seem to indicate that only about two percent of the available coal reserves have been mined. This may be a reasonable figure for much of the adjoining area to the west. Why the contrast between eastern and western Kentucky coals, other than ash which is a matter of purity? As pointed out in the preceding article the heating value of coal is determined by the degree of alteration the plant material has undergone, a matter of the amount of heat and pressure and how long the coal has been subjected to it. The Appalachian mountain region is a region of crushed and deformed rock strata, a region which has been subjected to tremendous lateral pressure. Proximity of the eastern Kentucky coal field to this region explains the greater alteration and the higher heating value of its coals. With increasing distance there is a decrease in heating value.

There is not space to consider any of the individual seams, but an interesting comment may be made on the time element, that is, how long it took for enough vegetation to accumulate to form some of our coal seams. Such figures are, of course, only approximations, but they are at the same time suggestive. It is estimated that in the north temperate zone under favorable conditions, one foot of peat forms in about a century and it takes about three centuries for enough to form one foot of bituminous coal. On that basis, which is a fair approximation, the seven and one half feet of Elkhorn, coal at Jenkins, Letcher county, took about 2,200 years to form in that ancient swamp and many times that number of years have elapsed since this peat was slowly altered into coal.

Paris by truck for 4½ cents a bushel transportation cost. They believe the project will pay thru having a better product and making marketing plans in advance.

Handicraft work is being revived by Harlan county homemakers, who are making stools, chairs, baskets, and quilts. Native sheep's wool is used for sweaters along with vegetable dyed yarns. At a tri-state fair held recently, the homemakers showed how modern women could excel in the old fireside crafts.

That a good herd of cows, well cared for, is a paying proposition, is shown by the record of 21 cows tested by the Mason County Dairy Herd Improvement association for one year. They averaged 318 pounds of butterfat per cow, and brought $55 profit each above feed costs.

Rural Church Council
 Affairs of the country church will be discussed at a meeting of the Kentucky Rural Church Council at the Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville October 22, to which are invited all pastors and interested laymen. It is announced by Dr. W. D. Nicholls, the secretary of the council. Prof. T. R. Bryant of the university of Kentucky college of agriculture will speak at chapel exercises in the morning, and afternoon speakers include Dr. Frank Powell and Dr. J. B. Weather- spoon of the seminary and Prof. N. R. Elliott of the college of agriculture.

YEARNING UNSATISFIED

A celebrity was placed next to a talkative and inquisitive maiden lady, who bored him excessively with her questions.

 "Tell me, won't you, what was your greatest ambition as a child, and have you attained it?" she asked.
 The celebrity looked at her sadly and said: "Madam, I attained my boyhood ambition."

 "And what was it?"
 "Madam, my great ambition was to throw an egg into an electric fan!"—Stray Stories Magazine.

Embarrassing

The mayor had consented, with a number of his colleagues, to attend an important temperance gathering. They were rather late and the chairman of the meeting, with the object of marking time, announced that they would sing the hymn, "Hail the Lord, For I Am Coming."

The civic procession, headed by the mayor, entered the hall just as the audience was singing "See the mighty host advance, Satan leading on!"—Tilt-Bits Magazine.

"Sometimes they live in holes and sometimes they crawl into the sugar bowl, and sometimes they live with their married sisters."

"That is all I know about ants."

Nearer Correct

"I gave the best answer in nature study today, mother," said Johnny, home from school.

"But an ostrich has two legs."

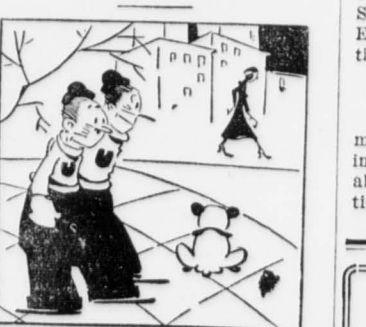

"I know that now, mother, but the rest of the class said four."—Stray Stories Magazine.

Too Confining

"A life on the ocean wave, it's grand," said Brown, who had just finished describing the beautiful sea and skies on his return from a Mediterranean cruise. "What do you think of it, Green?"

"No more cruises for me," replied Green. "As far as I am concerned they are all 'bunk'!"—Stray Stories Magazine.

Bounce Necessary

George and Jim were discussing a mutual friend whose virtues of humility and self-effacement were hindering his prospects of advancement. "He's just the sort of a fellow who deserves a better post," observed George.

"That may be," observed Jim. "But a fellow can't rise high in these days unless he has plenty of bounce!"

Perpetual Motion

"What are you studying now?" "Perpetual motion," answered the professor.

"Have you an example of it?" "Approximately. A bunch of boys rakes up a pile of leaves. The wind blows 'em around. They rake 'em up again, and so on indefinitely."

When He Quits

"Will you be a poor man when you quit politics?"

"I may," answered Senator Sorghum, "but I'll have no chance to worry about it. I won't quit politics while I'm alive. After that I won't be able to figure on what the doctor bills have left of my savings."

Proof Positive

 Mother—Willie, you appear to have been eating the jam again!
 Willie—Don't go by appearances, Mum.
 Mother—No, I go by disappearances.

Increasing Stature

As a general rule, growth in stature ceases after twenty-five in males and after eighteen to twenty in females, though sometimes it continues for three or four years later. There are individual cases of adults making slight increase in stature through stretching or other forms of exercise, and certain people claim to be able to increase height through their methods. As the stature is determined almost entirely by the skeleton, such increases are bound to be very slight and not to be measured in inches a year.

Possession of Gold Illegal

The United States is the only country where it is illegal to have gold. No country limits silver possession. Several countries have laws against hoarding in large amounts. In England, for example, one should not have a hoard of more than $50,000. France and Germany frown on gold hoarding, but do not forbid the possession of reasonable amounts.

Unpleasant Dreams Oftener

Various studies of dream phenomena made among college students as well as groups of older people reveal the fact that, in the majority of cases, unpleasant dreams occur twice as often as pleasant ones. The reason, it is believed, is that a large percentage of all dreams involve the element of frustrated effort.—Collier's Weekly.

U. S. Supreme Court Schedule

The United States Supreme court begins its annual session on the second Monday in October, and meets every week day except Saturday and holidays, until its adjournment in July for the summer. Six of the nine justices constitute a quorum and must be present to render a decision.

Stones for Soldiers' Graves

Headstones were first furnished by the government for soldiers' graves in 1873 when the secretary of war was authorized to furnish suitable headstones for soldiers, sailors and marines buried in national cemeteries. In 1870 authority was extended to include those buried in private, village and city cemeteries.

Corrosion

Corrosion is commonly called oxidation, or the union of the particular metal with oxygen in the air. Corrosion is not quite so simple as that. It is found that corrosion involves electrochemistry, or the production of electricity by chemical changes.

Prefer Monkey Meat

Although the Moco Indians of the Sierra de Perija—the range which forms the international boundary between Venezuela and Colombia—inhabit a country where the wild turkey and other game fowl abound, they prefer barbecued monkey meat.

The "Great Divide"

The term "Great Divide" is a popular one, but rather indefinite in meaning, and applies to a vast region in Montana, Idaho, Wyoming and Colorado traversed by the Continental divide.

Ohio as Sheep State

From 1850 to 1870 Ohio ranked first in the nation in sheep production, reaching its high point in 1867, with the enormous number of more than 7,000,000.

New England Likes Doughnuts

More than half the more than 4,000,000 doughnuts sold in the United States each year are eaten in New England, according to doughnut statisticians.

 In Re: LOCAL OPTION ELECTION.
 ORDER

 It appearing that a petition has been filed by a number of voters qualified to vote in county elections equal to 25 percent of the votes cast at the last regular election for county officers held in this county, it is ordered that W. H. Stacy, Sheriff of Morgan county, be and he is hereby directed to open a poll on the 5th day of November, 1935, according to the general election laws of the Commonwealth of Kentucky in each and all of the voting places in said county to take the sense of the legal voters who are qualified to vote at elections for county officers upon proposition whether or not spirituous, intoxicating, or malt liquor shall be sold, bartered, or loaned said county, and the said sheriff is hereby further directed to have this order published in some weekly or daily paper published in this county for at least two weeks before the election and to advertise the same by written or printed hand bills posted at some conspicuous place at each precinct in the county for not less than two weeks prior to said election.
 W. A. CASKEY,
 Judge Morgan County Court.

Air Contains Moisture

The air always contains some moisture, even though one is not conscious of it. Sun and wind are always taking up water from any source exposed to their action. Lakes and streams, moist land, and even animals and plants may be sources of atmospheric moisture, but the greatest sources are the oceans of salt water.

Speeches by President on Western Trip

TRAVELING rapidly to the Pacific coast for several days, President Roosevelt delivered several important addresses. The first was at Fremont, Neb., where he spoke to about 15,000 farmers and was enthusiastically received. Mr. Roosevelt set forth the chief accomplishments of his administration to date, and challenged his opponents to do better. He defended the legality of the New Deal and made it plain that he would continue to carry on experiments for the welfare of the people. Defining his idea of constitutional government, he said its true function is "to promote the general welfare, not by interfering unduly with individual liberties, but by bringing to the aid of the individual those powers of government which are essential to assure the continuance of the inalienable rights which the Constitution is intended to guarantee. It is democracy in the good old American sense of the word."

Coming to the AAA, in which his hearers might be supposed to be most vitally interested, the President asserted that "agricultural adjustment is an expression in concrete form of the human rights those farmer patriots sought to win when they stood at the bridge at Concord, when they proclaimed the Declaration of Independence, and when they perpetuated these ideals by the adoption of the Constitution."

No matter what attempts may be made to tear it down, "the principle of farm equality expressed by agricultural adjustment will not die," the President told the crowd.

The AAA has made "honorable history," the President declared, and as a result, smoke is pouring from chimneys again and workers without regular jobs are obtaining employment.

He served notice that it is the purpose of his administration to "use every square mile of the United States for the purpose to which it is best adapted." Nature must be harnessed instead of despised, he asserted.

At Boulder Dam the President assisted in the dedication of the great project and delivered an address in which he announced that government spending for employment purposes was nearing its end and that now private industry must take up the burden of decreasing the army of the unemployed. He defended the administration against the charges of "boondoggling" and said its efforts "meet with the approval of the people of the nation." He touched only lightly on the power question. Secretary Leves, who also spoke, said Boulder Dam should be re-named Johnson Dam, in honor of Senator Hiram Johnson.

Again at Los Angeles in the Hollywood Bowl and at San Diego the Chief Executive delivered addresses, and then he went to catch some fish.

High Cost of Living Is Subject of Inquiry

OBEYING the instructions of the President, the federal trade commission has begun a survey to determine why the cost of living is mounting so high. Several members of the commission's staff started the investigation in Detroit, where the housewives staged a meat strike some weeks ago. Other members of the staff will take up the work in Chicago, and later the inquiry will be carried on in other centers. The agricultural income especially is to be investigated.

Illinois Republicans for Knox for Presidency

COL. FRANK KNOX, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, is now an accredited candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination, for he has received the endorsement of the Republican state central committee of Illinois. Colonel Knox has been in a receptive mood for a long time and has traveled all over the country making speeches. In various unofficial straw votes he has been placed second, only Senator Borah being preferred to him.

Addressing the Illinois central committee, Colonel Knox said: "I have been from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from West Virginia on north, and everywhere I find that the Republicans not only think that they will be victorious but they have a deep sense of responsibility to rescue the country from the hands of socialists."

Budget Summation Shows Reduction in Deficits

IN A "budget summation" given out at Washington by order of the President it is shown that the federal deficits will be reduced by more than a billion and a quarter from the original estimates, because economic conditions have grown "decidedly better" and tax receipts are higher than was expected. The estimated deficit for the current fiscal year will be $3,281,000,000.

"The prevailing rate of recovery," the President said, "points to the speedy decline of federal expenditures for emergency activities."

Unless the AAA's processing taxes are knocked out by the Supreme court, he argued, the government "will not need new taxes or increased rates in existing taxes to meet the expenses of its necessary annual operations."

Van Sweringen Recover Railway Empire

VAN SWERINGEN brothers have regained control over the vast railway and real estate empire they built and lost to New York bankers. At the height of the boom this was valued at $3,000,000,000. It was taken by a banking group when the Van Sweringens defaulted on loans of $48,000,000 and was put up at auction. The brothers regained control for $3,121,000 by bidding in the majority stock of the Allegheny corporation, holding company for all but one of the so-called Van Sweringens roads, including the Chesapeake & Ohio, Pere Marquette, Nickel Plate, Missouri Pacific, and Chicago & Eastern Illinois, and the Van Sweringen corporation through which the brothers ruled their vast real estate possessions.

War in Ethiopia Growing Nearer Day by Day

ITALY having rejected the peace plan proposed by the League of Nations committee of five, and Ethiopia having accepted it, the committee reported to the league council that its efforts to solve the problem were futile.

The council thereupon held a public meeting and adopted unanimously the recommendation of its president, Enrique Ruiz Guinazu of Argentina, that it proceed under article 15 of the covenant, drafting a report and recommendations for settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian imbroglio.

A feature of the council's session was an address by Capt. Anthony Eden, British minister for league affairs. Conversations in Rome between British Ambassador Sir Eric Drummond and Premier Mussolini had led some to think Great Britain was weakening, but Eden announced his government was "steadfastly determined to abide by its policy" as previously declared.

Emperor Haile Selassie wired the league requesting that in view of the "increasing provocative attitude of Italy" neutral observers be dispatched to Ethiopia to establish responsibility in case a clash occurs.

The Ethiopian ruler notified the league that he could not delay general mobilization much longer, in view of the "increasing gravity of Italian aggression," but he decided to wait a little longer for action by the league before calling to arms his warriors, whose number he estimates at 2,000,000.

Mussolini, who asserted he expected Ethiopia would soon assault Italy's colonies proceeded to put 250,000 troops in east Africa. Nearly every day vessels left for Eritrea carrying large bodies of soldiers. On one of them went Prince Adelberto of Savoy, cousin of King Victor Emmanuel. In addition to the Italian troops, Mussolini will have half as many native fighters from Eritrea and Somaliland. The duke intimated he would quit the League of Nations if it took any action against Italy, but he also offered to negotiate an accord with Great Britain.

The British asked France to define its attitude should any nation attack the empire, and soon after Sir Samuel Hoare replied to France's questions regarding the British attitude toward possible trouble on the continent. The foreign secretary assured France that Great Britain would always support collective action against any aggressor.

Florida Narrowly Escapes Another Hurricane

A NOTHER fierce hurricane from the Caribbean swept across the middle part of Cuba, causing more than a score of deaths and doing vast property damage, and then seemed to be heading directly for southern Florida. The residents there made all possible preparations for safety, but the storm suddenly veered and roared off to the northeast over the Atlantic.

Liner Goes Aground but No Lives Are Lost

THE Holland-American liner Rotterdam, on a West Indian pleasure cruise, went aground on Morant Cays, 40 miles east of Jamaica, in fine weather, because of "an unaccountable shift" in the current. Her 400 passengers and 250 members of the crew were safely and comfortably transferred to the British steamer Ariguan and landed at Kingston, Jamaica. The Rotterdam was little injured.

SEEN and HEARD around the NATIONAL CAPITAL By Carter Field

Washington.—Typical of the sort of thing that has made the Republican party in New York state, impotent since the passing of Bill Barnes from its leadership is the proposal of Charles Dewey Hilles to throw the Empire state delegation to Bertrand H. Snell.

Most Republicans agree that Snell would make an excellent President. He has force, character, and ability. He stays put. He takes advice, but without ever yielding one inch on deep convictions, or yielding to temporary expediency. Never a back slapper, never a user of weasel words, he nevertheless fought his way up through the house of representatives, and won the G. O. P. nomination for the speaker-ship of that body against the whole strength of the Hoover administration. And his rather this following since 1932 has never regretted its choice.

But the whole point is that no one, least of all Mr. Hilles, who proposes to commit the New York delegation to Snell, has the slightest idea that the Republican convention will nominate the able New York representative. The whole purpose of giving this big delegation to Snell is to hold it away from Herbert Hoover, to hold it away from Senator Borah—even to hold it away from Colonel Knox—for the purpose of permitting another smoke-filled room nomination reminiscent of 1920.

It is good old Republican tradition—Democratic tradition, too, for that matter—that a group of old party wheel-horses can sit around in a room and do much better in picking a candidate than can either the voters in primaries or delegates in an untrammeled convention. In fact, there is so much history to back it up that there seems to be some logic in the contention.

But it is a tradition which would not have a chance this time if it were not for one thing—fear that Herbert Hoover will win the nomination by pure force of lethargy. Hilles also wants to head off Borah. He was distinctly annoyed at the recent poll of county and other leaders by Robert H. Lucas, which showed such surprising strength for the Idaho senator.

It's an Old Feud

This feud goes back to the days when William Howard Taft was President, and Hilles was his secretary. Borah has frequently remarked that "Taft and Hilles wrecked the party." He still thinks so and Hilles knows it. Hilles would not be consulted much if Borah were in the White House. He knows that, too.

Another phase of the situation is that a great many New York Republicans would prefer the nomination of former Senator James W. Wadsworth, now a member of the house. Wadsworth, like Snell, has never equivocated about the New Deal. When it looked as though opposing Roosevelt's program was little short of political suicide, Wadsworth always backed Snell in opposing it, not just by his vote, but by vigorous denunciation—sharp contrast with the number of other Republicans who gracefully yielded to the storm.

It so happens that neither one of these outstanding New Yorkers is of the boss type. Else the story of the New York Republican faction in the last 15 years might be very different.

After the passing of Barnes, when New York had a Republican governor, Whitman, and two Republican senators, Calder and Wadsworth, there was a considerable G. O. P. faction which wanted Wadsworth to be boss in Barnes' place. Another faction backed Calder. Calder wanted the job. Wadsworth didn't. He didn't want to be bothered with it. But while Calder went after it the younger group, including Snell, backed Wadsworth. Which resulted in there being no Republican boss in New York at all.

Woman suffrage and prohibition divided the leaderless party. Calder was defeated for reelection by Doctor Copeland, and in 1926 Bob Wagner defeated Wadsworth. Then along came Roosevelt and Farley to build up the upstate Democratic organization in the country sections, as Al Smith had already built it up in the cities.

And now there is a new complication. It looks as though a new schism was about to divide the New York Republicans.

Puzzling Problem

What substitute for AAA—farm benefits and processing taxes—can the opposition to the New Deal offer?

That problem is causing furrowed brows among would-be candidates on the Republican ticket against Franklin D. Roosevelt next year. It is also worrying the wheel-horses of the party—those that are left—the men who know they can never themselves carry the standards, but who like tremendously to feel that they are powers behind the throne. Such men, for example, as J. Henry Roraback of Connecticut—the last of the old bosses. Such men as Dave Mulvane of Kansas used to be.

Reliable reports from the farm belt indicate that the Republicans must have some substitute—something that will satisfy the farmers—if they are to have a chance in that part of the country. The reports are interesting for another reason. They indicate that it will not be difficult to enlist the farmers against the New Deal if they are convinced they will fare just as well without it.

Apparently the farmers are not at all satisfied that the system, which is now paying them handsome benefits in return for their crop restrictions, is sound.

What most of the farmers would really like would be to have all restrictions on production removed, and then to have prices for all crops guaranteed by the government—prices that would yield them what they regard as a decent return for their labor and the use of their land.

Appeal to Farmers

This sounds more uneconomic than even the present scheme. But it would appeal infinitely more to the farmers, and, curiously enough, it is almost precisely what was offered as a farm plank by former Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, and which was so flatly rejected by Coolidge, Hoover and Mellon. In short it amounts to the export debenture, with its equalization fee provision. The only difference is that the equalization fee part of the scheme does not appeal much to the farmers. If any particular crop were very large, so that a heavy percentage of it had to be sacrificed to a sharp loss on export sales, then the equalization fee might easily deprive the farmer of that fair price he craves.

But the farmer is a natural gambler. He has to be. He gambles on every crop he plants—against nature. And up to now on the market price. The farm benefits for not raising crops are virtually the first sure thing the farmers of the world have ever had.

Perhaps because of the trace of gambling which seems to be in every human being, this is not the phase of AAA which appeals most to him. Or at least reports from all over the country indicate that it is not. He wants to gamble against nature—against surpluses of his crop from other countries competing in the world market. He wants the chance of an occasional killing with fat prices on a big crop on his land, even though that big price can be occasioned only by crop failures elsewhere.

But while this is what he wants, he is not going to give up the security he now has for the first time in the history of mankind for the mere privilege of gambling. And he will not vote that way.

Want Longer Hours

"Why doesn't the government work us sixty hours a week and give us enough to live on?"

That is the complaint of worker after worker on the famous Passamaquoddy tidal project, just outside Eastport, Maine, and close to beautiful Campobello, where President Roosevelt loved to vacation years ago.

"I work eight hours a day, five days a week," a worker told the writer. "For that the government gives me $11 a week. I have to pay $10 a week for my board and room, so you see I have to be pretty careful with that other dollar."

"It's just crazy," said a garage worker, who was intently listening. "The government ought to work these fellows ten hours a day, and six days a week. Then they would make some money. They could buy things. Isn't that what we are supposed to be needing?"

"Don't talk to me about the men needing the time off for recreation. What do they do with their time off? Two days—they have—and they lay around the ends of the wharves and bum cigarettes from us natives. You see they can't afford to buy their own."

"But modern thought is that a man ought not to work as long as sixty hours a week," they could buy things. "Say, mister, we used to work sixty hours a week all the time, and we got along just fine," retorted the garage worker.

"But the government wants to take care of as many men needing work as it can with the money it can afford to spend," persisted the writer. "Isn't this the best way to do it?"

Anyway, More Money

"Well, maybe it would be better not to work them sixty hours," conceded the garage man, "but certainly they ought to get $25 a week. Why, mister, lots of these chaps have wives. I know a lot of them who have three children. What do you think a man can do for a wife and three children on $11 a week?"

"Cold weather is coming on, and these fellows will have to buy a lot of warm clothes. That dollar a week over board money, for the single ones, won't go very far then."

Eastport looks like a boom mining town save for one thing—the money isn't jingling. Men walk around the streets in machinaws. High laced boots, sweaters and heavy fur caps give an Alaskan note to the picture. But there are no gambling halls. Cheap lunch rooms abound. They have to be cheap. Nobody has the money to support an expensive one. Which is also the answer, of course, to the lack of gambling halls.

Not all the men are bitter at Uncle Sam. Some of them are pitifully grateful to get work, even at $11 a week. But mighty few of them understand the economic ideas behind that "prevailing wage" amendment. They do not realize the idea that this work is just to provide employment until private industry can absorb them—that the last thing intended is to make these jobs so attractive that men would not leave them to take private employment, even of humble varieties.

Lesson for October 13

THE STORY OF JEREMIAH

LESSON TEXT—Jeremiah 1:6-10; 26:18-19.
GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt go to all that I send thee, and whatsoever I command thee thou shalt speak. Jeremiah 1:7.
PRIMARY TOPIC—The Story of Jeremiah.
JUNIOR TOPIC—The Story of Jeremiah.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Taking a Stand for God.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Attacking Entrenched Evils.

1. Jeremiah's Call (1:1-10).
1. It was pre-natal (vv. 4, 5). Before Jeremiah was born God ordained him a prophet to the nations.
2. His diffidence (v. 6). This seems to have grown out of his youth and inexperience.
3. His hesitancy overcome (vv. 7, 8). God graciously appeared to him and made clear that he should go where sent, speak as commanded, and to be not afraid of the faces of his enemies. This was accompanied by the assurance of the divine presence. It matters little as to the strength of the foe if the presence of God is with the messenger.

4. The divine message given (v. 9). The very words were put into the prophet's mouth, not merely the thoughts but the proper words to express the thoughts.

5. The nature of his ministry (v. 10). It was to be wider than that of prophesying. Six words were given as descriptive thereof. The first four are destructive in their implication: "root out," "pull down," "destroy," and "throw down." The last two are constructive: "build" and "plant." The destructive precedes the constructive.

II. Jeremiah's Grief (9:1).
The unbelief of the people made him feel that his efforts were fruitless. Seeing so clearly the awful doom which awaited this people, he wept sorely. The true prophet of God takes to heart the seriousness of his ministry and sorely grieves over the wicked unbelief of the people.

III. Jeremiah's Prophecy in the Temple Court (26:1-24).

1. Jeremiah's solemn warning to Judah (vv. 1-7). The Lord commanded him to stand in a conspicuous place in the Temple and proclaim the judgment which was about to fall upon them. The object was to provoke them to repentance. If they did not repent, God would make the Temple as Shiloh, Shiloh was once the dwelling place of God; now it had fallen into decay. So will it be with the Temple. Jeremiah was sent to speak the words which his Lord had told him and not to diminish a word.

2. Jeremiah on trial (vv. 9-11).
a. Cause of arrest. He was arrested for speaking all that the Lord had commanded.

b. The charge (vv. 8, 9). They charged him with a capital crime, which involved pretending to speak for God and speaking against the Temple and the city. This would make him to be guilty of blasphemy and sacrilege, both of which were to be punished by death (Deut. 18:20; Lev. 24:16).

c. The princes sit in judgment (vv. 10, 11). We thus see that matters of state were not entirely in the hands of priests, but in part were controlled by members of the royal family.

3. Jeremiah's defense (vv. 12-15). Threats of death did not deter him from preaching, but only inspired him to repeat his message with clearness and tenderness.

a. Reiterated the divine commission.

b. He urged them to amend their ways and to obey God and thus avert the divine judgment (v. 13).

c. He gave himself up (v. 14). He did not resist the powers of government. Knowing that God had sent him, he was content to trust God for deliverance.

d. Warns of fatal consequences. He frankly told them that God had sent him and if they killed him they would be guilty of defying God.

4. Jeremiah saved (vv. 16-24).

a. The princes pronounce him not guilty (v. 16). They were convinced that Jeremiah was speaking the truth.
b. The elders plead for Jeremiah (vv. 17-23). They cited two cases: Micah (vv. 18, 19) and Urijah (vv. 20-23). They argued that killing God's prophets did not turn aside his judgment but intensified it. The only way to avert the judgment is to turn from their sins.
c. Jeremiah rescued by Ahikam (v. 24). He was a man of such influence that he was able to interfere at such a critical time.

Daily Living

He is wise who can instruct us and assist us in the business of daily virtuous living; he who trains us to see old truth under academic formulas may be wise or not as it chances; but we love to see Wisdom in unpretending form, to recognize her royal features under week-day vesture.

Reflect upon your present blessings, of which every man has many; not on your past misfortunes, of which all men have some.

CHAPTER XIV—Continued

"I think I understand, child," she said, in a voice that was all sadness. And it was Silver who had cried. By midafternoon the sky was a sultry, gray-white glare of heat, and the leaves of the Micheners' shade trees drooped like flakes of lead. A new and sinister stillness pervaded the air, a sort of hushed and unwholesome waiting. Although there was not a cloud in sight, low in the west there was a curious humid depth of blue, as though the paint from a water-color had run down and settled.

"It's going to storm!" Grandma Michener predicted.

Silver was preparing to leave for home when Phil Michener came back from Maynard. The incident at the Emerald Bay club had been the talk of the town during the day.

"Strikes me," Phil added, "Roddy ought to keep that pretty wife of his away from such places—though that's his business, not mine."

"Corinne wasn't over there last night?" Silver put in.

"She was there with the Richters," Phil told her.

Silver had a hurried farewell and started for home. As she spurred stantly over the short-cut and through the fields, she found herself shivering with some nameless apprehensiveness that had no connection with the approaching storm. Here and there alongside the grassy, almost unused road, the cottonwood leaves rustled fitfully, as if in some secret agitation, for it could not be the glazed, dead air that stirred them on.

The light was subtly changing. The effect of it was rather that of looking at an eclipse of the sun through a blue glass. And when Silver finally turned her horse into his own pasture, the western horizon had swollen into a blue-black, monstrous reef.

There was no one in the yard as she approached Roddy's house. Roddy and Corinne, Silver knew, were cutting hay in the south field, almost a mile away. The whirr of the mower came faintly on the dead stillness of the later afternoon.

In the driveway, before the door of the big house, stood Roddy's car. As Silver passed it, she glanced into it and saw a large black suitcase lying across the seat. Could Corinne possibly be planning to go somewhere with the storm coming on?

She flung open the kitchen door and almost collided with Corinne—hatted and gloved, and wearing a tailored dark silk dress suitable for traveling. In one hand she carried a small leather case and her purse. Under her other arm she carried a bag of groceries.

"Where in the world are you going, Corinne?" she asked. "Don't you see there's a storm coming up?"

Corinne laughed nonchalantly, although her eyes flashed in reckless defiance. "I haven't time to tell you," she replied. "I have to hurry."

What are you doing? Let me go! Her voice rose to a piercing shriek as Silver seized her and forced her violently into a chair.

"For God's sake, Corinne!" Silver panted. "Have you lost your senses completely?"

"Take your hands off me!" Corinne burst out. She had gone white with fury as she struggled to release herself.

Silver dropped Corinne's arms and stepped back from her, aghast and bewildered. "Are you going away with Gerald Lucas?" she demanded.

"This is none of your business!" Corinne flamed as she sprang from the chair. "I know what I'm doing. I haven't time to talk to you—even if I wanted to!"

She started again toward the door, but Silver barred her way.

"How dare you interfere with me?" Corinne stammered, with something of her old imperious manner, which was to Silver merely pathetic now. "You must be crazy!"

"It's you who are crazy," Silver interrupted coldly.

Corinne seemed to regain control of herself. "Think what you like," she said in a calmer tone. "I have never cared much about what you think of me, anyhow." She pushed back her sleeve with a trembling hand and glanced at her watch. "All I want now is to get away. That's all I've wanted from the first day I came here. I've left a note telling Roddy he can find the car in front of Haber's store. Let me pass, please!"

Silver did not move from her place before the door. "I can't let you go—like this."

"Have your own way, then," Corinne told her. "I'll go out by the front door."

Silver burst suddenly into tears and clung to Corinne.

"Corinne—I implore you! Don't do this to yourself! I know what life with Gerald will be. I've seen enough of it—I've been through it. Your life will be ruined. Corinne, darling—please—please—I won't let you go!"

Silver caught her arm, but Corinne, with a sharp little jerk of her body, disengaged herself. Her small, pliant face was frozen with determination.

She looked suddenly years older.

"I tell you—I don't care!" she cried desperately. Her head was proud and high. "I can't let him go away alone. I realized that last night when he told me he would have to leave. I love him—and he loves me." For an appalling moment her face became almost shrewish. "If I don't like the way Gerald lives, perhaps I can make something worth while out of him—and I couldn't do that for Roddy Willard!"

Before Silver could reach her, Corinne had darted into the front room and out the door. Silver ran after her, sobbing, pleading, clutching at her in despair, but Corinne, in stony, inexorable silence, climbed into the car and drove away.

Silver looked wildly after her, and stood for a moment with her hand pressed frantically against her mouth. She was vaguely aware that it had the human heart and wrong thinking from the human mind.

The rain ceased as suddenly as it had begun. Presently, from the direction of the Willard hill, Silver saw a dark shape plunging toward her. It was Roddy.

"What the devil are you doing out here?" he demanded as he came within speaking distance.

"I started out to find you—when the rain came," she replied haltingly.

"We hit for the house when we saw it coming," he said.

"You've been home—you've found Corinne's letter?" she asked.

"I found it," he replied in a clipped tone.

"I tried to stop her, Roddy. I fought with her—but I couldn't do anything. Then I ran—to get you—so that you could go after her—before it was too late."

Roddy smiled bitterly. "H—I, they've gone to Mexico!" he said. "That's too far away for me."

"You're going to let her go?"

"It isn't as bad as it looks, kid," he said slowly. "Corinne really left me—months ago. But—come along. Steve is out looking for you, and Phonie is having fits because you're not in the house."

He put his arm about her gently and they walked in silence toward the house. To the eastward, lightning strode across the sky, and all about them are air quaked with thunder.

"Don't you think too much about this, Silver," Roddy said steadily as they went across the field. "I'm giving Corinne a chance to live the life she wants to live. I've known what she wanted—but I've never been able to give it to her. I was a d-d fool, I guess. But there's something I want to tell you—Corinne is really in love with Lucas. I have suspected it all along, but when she came home last night—there was something about her—a sort of glow in her face that I've never seen there before. I asked her about Lucas and she told me she loved him. There wasn't anything I could do about it, kid. I told her she could go when she felt like it."

Silver's heart beat so rapidly that she could make no reply. They made their way across the field until they came parallel with Roddy's experimental tract of corn. The sky was lifting now as though the lid were being raised from a casket of glowing jewels. Green and gold and blue, in a cleansed and hallowed world—a cast over the heart a spell of awe and wonder.

On this, the south side of the field, the locusts had done very little damage. And now, after the rain, the stalks stood tall and fine, the snags, firm ears glistened, and the leaves flowed with beauty.

Silver, her eyes upon the field, thought of Corinne. "How could she go away from this, Roddy—and take a chance on the life?"

Roddy smiled down at her. "Life's a gamble—wherever you live it, Silver," he said. "It's when you live it with someone you love that makes the difference."

He took her shoulders in his hands, turned her about and looked through almost a year of frustration, despair and defeat—into the serenity of Silver's eyes.

And across his shoulder, Silver saw a rainbow above the land.

[THE END.]

JEALOUS BOY FRIEND

Mrs. Dave Ross of Nevada, Mo., tells her white rooster "Boy Friend."

He follows her everywhere and chases away all the other chickens. If she ignores him, he scolds and pecks her ankle until she picks him up. In the morning he comes to her window and crows.

"Wasn't I good and glad to discover it!"

MRS. K. J. TOBIN, OF BEVERLY HILLS, ILL., WELCOMES

Calumet Baking Powder... in a big, new 10¢ can!

"WHAT'S THE SENSE in taking chances with second-bests when you can get a good, big can of Calumet for a dime?" asks Mrs. Tobin.

"I've never had a baking failure with Calumet," Mrs. Tobin said. And judging by the expectant faces of Richard and Patricia, Mrs. Tobin is not the only member of her family who knows how delicious Calumet cakes always are!

A SIMPLE TWIST... and the Easy-Off Top lifts off. No delay, no spilling, no broken finger-nails!

WHY DOES CALUMET give such astonishing "baking luck"? Why is Calumet different from other baking powders? Because Calumet combines two distinct leavening actions. A quick one for the mixing bowl. A slower one for the oven... and Calumet's double-action is so perfectly balanced and controlled that it produces perfect leavening—every time.

All Calumet prices are lower! Calumet is now selling at the lowest prices in history... the regular price of Full-Pound Can is now only 25¢! And be sure to see the new, big 10¢ can—a lot of good baking for a dime, with Calumet, the Double-Acting Baking Powder. A product of General Foods.

You cannot afford to be without Firestone Ground Grip Tires for Fall and Winter use on your car, truck and tractor. You will not need chains! They will give you the greatest satisfaction and save you money!

FALL RAINS and winter snows present a transportation problem to farmers. Firestone solved this problem when they developed the complete line of Ground Grip Tires for cars, trucks, tractors and all farm implements. There are three patented features that give Firestone Tires super-traction in mud, snow, sand, gravel or soft ground of any kind.

1. Gum-Dipped Cord Body Built with 54% additional tough rubber and scientifically designed with heavy cross bars and deep grooves that are self-cleaning (chains are not necessary), giving super-traction and long wear. The bars of rubber are so placed that they will not bump when used on paved roads.

2. Ground Grip Tread This exclusive construction feature locks the thick, heavy tread securely to the Gum-Dipped cord body, making them one inseparable unit. This makes practical the use of a wider, flatter, thicker, deeper non-skid Firestone tread with higher shoulders and more and tougher rubber.

3. Two Extra Layers of Gum-Dipped Cords This makes practical the use of a wider, flatter, thicker, deeper non-skid Firestone tread with higher shoulders and more and tougher rubber.

Mrs. Jewel Polfrey and three children, who had been visiting relatives at Crockett the past two weeks, have returned home.

FLAT WOODS

Sept. 30.—One of the most successful revivals ever held here, with eight conversions and nine baptisms, closed Wednesday night. The evangelist, Rev. Hobart Halsey of Mize, was assisted by Revs. Everett Todd of Redwine, Millard Vest of Bonny, and James Wheeler. The schoolhouse was too small to accommodate the large crowds that attended. Good interest prevailed from start to the close. This was the best meeting held here in 20 years. We hope these good ministers will come again.

Mrs. J. B. Fagatz is confined to her room as the result of a fall.

Aaron Cox conducted the singing here the revival.

The supper at Carter on Saturday night, Oct. 12, Miss Mildred Fugatz is the teacher.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Osborn and daughter Myrtle, Miss Mildred Fugatz, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. May and family, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Cox, Mrs. Nathan Ratliff, Joe Gibson, Ed Manning, and Roy Cox attended the funeral of Aunt Mary Mae at Bonny on Sunday.

Church and young people's meeting here every Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor May of West Liberty were guests Thursday of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Henry and family.

There will be baptizing at Woodshend next Sunday at 2 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Wheeler of Morehead were guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Wheeler on Sunday.

Gorman Frisby is teaching a moon-light school at Flat Woods.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Robinson visited the week end at Good Ridge. UNCLE ZIP

LOGVILLE

Oct. 7.—Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Kennard and little son of Paintsville, and Mr. and Mrs. Lema Candill and children, of Van Lear, motored out and were Sunday dinner guests of R. A. Kennard. All returned home Sunday evening except Mrs. Candill and children, who expect to spend a few weeks with her mother, Mrs. Eliza Pack.

Mrs. Charlie Williams took her daughter Bernice to Paintsville on Sunday to have her tonsils removed.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Elam and sons, of Portsmouth, Ohio, spent a few days recently with relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Kennard have received word that they have a new granddaughter, born to Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kelly of West Frankfort, Ill., on Sept. 11. Her name is Barbara Dean.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kennard, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Kennard, Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Hamilton, Celia Cisco, and Tolbert Kennard were called to the bedside of Mrs. Louisa Hamilton at Coal Run last week. They came home Saturday leaving her "just alive."

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Kennard and daughter Dorothy, Mrs. Eliza Pack, and George Elam attended church Sunday at Elkfork.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Elam and children and Mrs. Herbert Elam and her daughter were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Kennard.

Mrs. Rosa Hamblin, who visited her sister, Mrs. Jim Coffee, and other relatives the past month, has returned to her home in Milwaukee, Wis.

"Isle of Little Dogs"

On the Seine about five miles from the heart of Paris is the "Isle of Little Dogs," where thoughtful Parisians have buried, in tree-lined streets that are named after noted personages who loved animals, more than 25,000 "friends of man." One street is known as the "Cradle of Cats." A bronze tablet marking the resting place of a "very brave girl" further gives the details of the feline's bravery in the trenches. Sensitive antennae-like whiskers, catching the scent of approaching gas, caused her to meow loudly, awakening the police in time to save themselves. She was a brave girl.

Artemus Ward

Artemus Ward was the nom de plume of the American humorist, Charles Farrar Browne, born in 1834, died in 1907. He created the character Artemus Ward, a wandering showman, telling his story in the first person. His amusing adventures, his remarkable spelling and his shrewd observations on human nature made him a household character.

Earthlight Puzzles Scientists

Earthlight still puzzles scientists. It is a light of greatly varying intensity that sometimes illuminates the nocturnal sky, and is not attributed to sunlight, moonlight or starlight. Some believe it to be a feeble auroral discharge, yet it occurs in the absence of any well-defined aurora and in all parts of the sky.—Collier's Weekly.

Yacht Racing Costly Sport

Yacht racing is the most expensive sport. While most sports pay substantial dividends, there are no returns from this sport. For the international yacht race in 1934 American sportsmen alone spent upward of $3,000,000 to retain America's cup, which, in actual value was worth about $500.

No Pity for Cripples

Queen Elizabeth, under whom England rose to a great power, could not bear the sight of the crippled or deformed and her attendants would shoo them out of the way whenever the queen appeared outdoors. A man, however able or noble, could hope for no position under her if ugly in any way.

Lyre-Bird Greatest Mimic

The lyre-bird of Australia is the world's best feathered mimic. Its greatest rival, the American mockingbird, is limited to "natural" sounds such as bird calls. The lyre knows no limit, such sounds as the peculiar chuckle of dray wheels and the crack of a whip are copied faithfully.

Ever Thus

AUTHOR BENNET EXAMINES LOCALE OF HIS NEW YARN

"Caught in the Wild" Appears Serially in This Newspaper.

Robert Ames Bennet believes in gathering authentic information about the country in which he lays the plots for his stories. He is shown below exploring the formations in the far north, which forms the background for his latest adventure story, "Caught in the Wild," which appears serially in this newspaper.

Robert Ames Bennet.

Bennet was born in Denver in 1870, when that city's population numbered only 5,000. With his family he traveled much of the West and before he was seven had seen two gold camp shootings. Although he attended public schools for a short time he is largely a self-educated man. After two years of law school he began the practice of law with his father and brother.

Since 1907 he has devoted all of his time to writing, having become a popular figure with lovers of good books and readers of magazines throughout the country because of the vibrant, exciting quality of his 30 or more novels.

"Caught in the Wild," hailed by many critics as his best, is the story of a prospector and three tenderfeet, two of them dangerous crooks and one a spoiled young woman, trapped in the north woods when their plane crashed. You'll find it one of the most exciting stories in years, if you follow it serially in the columns of this newspaper.

Outstanding

"OMAHA"—Winner, one after the other, of the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness, and the Belmont

Omaha is an outstanding horse today.

And in the cigarette world Chesterfield is outstanding.

Both won their place strictly on merit.

Apply any test you like—Chesterfields stand for the best there is in cigarettes.

They are milder . . . yet they let you know you're smoking. They taste better—give you real pleasure.
